

Lindy Winds Up Public Career

When He Sees His Mother Honored in Thousands of Her Associates, Who Made Her Life Member of National Education Association.

March 2 (AP).—Tired appearing and obviously travel-worn, Charles A. Lindbergh rested today, somewhere out of sight of reporters, his last public engagement, and with no plans for the future except a desire to retire to private life.

In his own words, he wound up his public career last night when he saw his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Louise Lindbergh, Detroit, school teacher, honored by thousands of her associates who made her a life member of the National Education Association.

With Mrs. Lindbergh and her famous son on the platform were Governor and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, W. P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce, and Joseph M. Gwinn, of the education association.

In quitting the hall, there occurred the only untoward happening of the day. Miss Charlotte Wells, 23, either fell or was pushed by the crowd under the wheels of the automobile of Rear Admiral Philip A. Andrews in which Lindbergh was riding.

A rear wheel of the machine passed over one of the girl's feet and was stopped by the quick action of a policeman who jumped on the running board and directed the chauffeur to halt. An ambulance rushed the girl to a hospital.

In a brief interview with newspaper men earlier in the day, the transatlantic flyer told reporters that he "hoped to return to private life for a time." He declined to say whether he would retire permanently.

"The meeting tonight is my last official function. My plans are indefinite after that."

Likewise he refused to say when he would take off from the East Boston airport where he brought his five passenger Ryan monoplane down after his trip from Schenectady, N. Y. Throughout the day he adhered strictly to his announced intention of erasing the public.

AWARDS FOR PROGRESS IN ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY

Schenectady, N. Y., March 2 (AP).—Charles A. Coffin awards to twenty-four men, who in the opinion of the General Electric Company, contributed to the progress of the electrical industry during 1927, were announced by the company today.

The awards, made from the income of a $400,000 fund were granted for ideas ranging from new manufacturing equipment to methods of salesmanship and the promotion of a "suggestion" system among employees.

The annual awards are made for ideas not merely because they are ingenious or foster economy, but because they "may improve working conditions and individual satisfaction."

Inventions in lamp making equipment by John J. Malloy and Ludwig Staudenmeier, of Cleveland, saved their company $400,000 in machine investment and $190,000 in labor costs. The judges estimated in making awards to the two men. Oliver H. Brigham, a Pittsfield welder, received an award for the mere re-counting of the transportation of patterns through his shop after he found that the existing method interfered with the efficiency of the welders.

BELIEVE McDONALD IS "THRILL SLAYER"

Hempstead, N. Y., March 2 (AP).—Belief that George McDonald, awaiting execution in Montreal with his wife Doris, is Philip Knapp, sought as the "thrill slayer" of Nassau county, has been expressed by local police.

Knapp's fingerprints have been sent to the Canadian authorities for comparison with those of McDonald.

A distinct similarity between the pictures of the two men and the fact that a similar crime—murder of a taxicab driver—is charged in each case is the basis for their belief. Captain of Detectives Harold King said.

LOST BOY IS LOCATED AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Thursday morning the police department was asked to assist in locating John Brodhead, 13, of 19 West Strand. The boy had left for St. Mary's School on Wednesday but had not gone to school. It was thought he was visiting friends in Poughkeepsie. The local police got in touch with the Bridge City department and were notified Thursday afternoon that the boy was found and was being held. Mrs. Brodhead was notified of the finding of her boy.

Why Banks Do Not Pay Big Interest Assails Coolidge

President Clarke of the National Cister County Bank Replies to Question Often Asked—Safety First Applies to Savings.

Kingston, March 2, 1928. Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman: It has been frequently asked by persons unfamiliar with the towering trend of the yield on investments, why banks in Kingston do not at the present time pay 4 1/2 per cent interest on deposits on their savings deposits, as is done by banks in other communities near by. A good and sufficient reason can be offered, in the yield on sound, safe and salable investments, except mortgages, permitted to be purchased for trust funds, at the present time is less than 4 per cent.

Only a portion of the funds of banks can be or ought to be invested in mortgages, owing to the inability to turn them into cash when needed, as they have often been proven to be frozen assets. Another portion can be invested in sound, salable securities of the highest type. This class of securities is selling at a price to yield 3.55 per cent to 4 per cent, which may be thought insufficient to warrant the paying of interest or dividends to depositors of 4 1/2 per cent, after paying expenses of the bank and setting aside a proper sum for losses.

In proof of this, United States Liberty Bonds are selling to yield from 3.97 per cent to 3.70 per cent. The city of New York has just sold a large issue of 4 per cent bonds, selling in the market to day to yield 3.70 per cent.

The city of Kingston is about to issue a 4 per cent bond which it is hoped will sell on a 3.55 per cent basis.

It is the expectation of those familiar with the trend of financial affairs, that for the next few years the trend of the yield of high class investments will be even lower than that obtainable at the present time. With this knowledge, would it be prudent to overlook such obvious tendencies?

Banks in other communities raised the rate of interest to depositors when the times and the yield on investments perhaps warranted the step, but many of them now consider the continuation of such a rate as unwise and not consistent with sound banking and hope that as soon as competition will permit, they may retract their steps.

The banks in Kingston have been most conservatively managed and they have grown to be stronger and safer than ever in their history. The merchant and community are better served by having its banking situation sound and prosperous than they would be by having banks enter into competition with other communities, which may be thought to be practicing unwise measures.

ORMSBY INDICTED FOR 2ND DEGREE MANSLAUGHTER

Troy, N. Y., Mar. 2 (AP).—David T. Ormsby, 23, who shot and killed Mrs. Loretta Graber McNeary, 23, on January 31 was indicted today for manslaughter in the second degree by a Rensselaer county grand jury.

Ormsby was admitted the shooting, but says it was an accident. He claims he met Mrs. McNeary, an usher at a local theatre, after her work was completed at night, and accompanied her to his hotel.

When they were leaving through a rear exit he claims the young woman told him she heard a noise. Believing that somebody was following them, Ormsby says he pulled a revolver from his pocket and it was accidentally discharged, killing his companion.

LINDY GIVES CHECK FOR OLD CONSTITUTION FUND

Boston, March 2 (AP).—When Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh left the East Boston airport this morning on his flight to New York he gave Rear Admiral Philip A. Andrews, commander of the First Naval District and his host here, what the admiral described as a "generous" check toward the fund for repairing the old Frigate Constitution.

Lindbergh spent the night with Admiral Andrews. During his stay at the Boston Navy Yard he visited "Old Ironsides" at the dock where it is being rehabilitated.

FALL IN LUNCH WAGON RESULTS IN $10,000 SUIT

Henry Schipp, proprietor of the Schipp's Diner, Main street, Ellenville, is named as defendant in a suit for $10,000 by Herman Greenberg, salesman, who alleges "foreign matter" on the floor of the lunch wagon caused him to fall and injure himself on February 11. He spent eleven days at the Veteran's Memorial Hospital where his trouble was described as "a mental condition." It is said, Schipp and an employee stated at the time that Greenberg collapsed and fell to the floor.

NEGRESS HELD FOR GRAND JURY HAS APPENDICITIS

Eleanor Golden, the negress of Chambers street who was held Tuesday morning for the grand jury on a charge of slashing Wally Cloud, a negro, in the throat with a knife, was seized with an attack of appendicitis on Thursday afternoon in the county jail and was removed to the City of Kingston Hospital in the ambulance.

Another Boy's Body in Canal

Bodies of Two Well Dressed Boys Fished From Indiana Harbor Ship Canal Within Eight Days of Each Other.

Indiana Harbor, Ind., March 2 (AP).—Bound tightly by heavy wire and fished from the muddy Indiana harbor ship canal within eight days of each other, the bodies of two well dressed boys lay unclaimed in a morgue today as police puzzled over the manner of their deaths.

The first body was found February 22. While police were investigating identification clues in Illinois and Indiana last night, a bridge tender discovered the second body floating down the canal, about a mile from where the first was located. An autopsy revealed that the second boy had been beaten and strangled and then thrown into the canal. Drowning was given as the cause of death in the February case.

Convinced the two had been slain, the police suggested two possible motives. One was that the boys were attacked by a moron, bound and tossed into the water. The other was that the parents or guardians, tiring of the responsibilities of parenthood or desiring to gain an inheritance, tossed the boys into the muddy waters. No reports of missing children have been made in this vicinity. Scores of persons viewed the body of the first boy found but none identified him.

To satisfy themselves that no other bodies are in the canal, the police planned to drag it for more than a mile today.

Because the two bodies bore striking resemblances to each other and were dressed alike, police and the county coroner believe them to be brothers, apparently from a family in easy circumstances.

SAYS NAVY NEEDS THREE MORE AIRPLANE CARRIERS

Baltimore, March 2 (AP).—Usefulness of naval vessels can be so much increased by the addition of aircraft that, in comparison, they are quite ineffective without such aid, Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, today told the Harvard Club.

Airplanes, he added, are wholly useless without ships for regular operations far from shore.

Warner said the American people as a whole believe in aerial navigation and desire to encourage it. Being committed to aviation in the service of commerce, the army and navy, he declared, is that development of aircraft as a striking force for offensive action against enemy naval vessels on the high seas depends upon the construction of aircraft carriers. Without such carriers, the airplane can be used only as a force to defend home shores, he added.

He held that more than three airplane carriers now possessed are needed in the navy to train officers and men and that effective development of any instrument of war depends upon experience in its use in war or in peace time maneuvers.

NEUVOS MOTORIST MAY HAVE KILLED FARMER'S WIFE

York, Ala., March 2 (AP).—An autoist afraid of ghosts was the possible slayer of Mrs. D. A. McDonald, wife of a dairy farmer, whose body, clad only in a night gown, was found on a highway here yesterday. She had been shot to death.

Mrs. McDonald, according to a police theory, was walking in her sleep when a nervous motorist fired at her and then sped away. A small boy's suit was found clamped in the woman's arms, and it was believed that her subconscious mind had prompted her to go, while still asleep, to the side of her four-year-old son, who was spending the night at the home of her brother-in-law two miles away.

FRENCH FLEETS TAKE OFF FOR DETROIT

Mitchell Field, N. Y., March 2 (AP).—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrun, French four-continent fliers, took off at 11:35 o'clock today for Detroit on the first leg of a trip back to Paris.

They were flying their biplane "Nungesser-Coll" in which they already had crossed Europe, Africa, South and North America and the Atlantic ocean. A new motor had been installed in the ship since they reached here on February 11.

From Detroit they will continue to San Francisco, sailing from there on March 15 for Tokyo, whence they will resume the flight to Paris.

PRINCE OF WALES PAYS TRIBUTE TO EARL HAIG

London, Mar. 2 (AP).—The Prince of Wales presided over a big meeting at the Mansion House this afternoon to inaugurate an appeal for $500,000 (about $2,500,000) to provide cottage homes for ex-service men as a memorial to the late Field Marshal Earl Haig.

The prince paid a feeling tribute to Earl Haig as a soldier and a friend, praising his services after the Armistice in devoting himself to the army men's interests, as even greater than his war services.

Shearn Succumbs Scudder

Albany, N. Y., March 2 (AP).—Governor Smith today appointed Clarence J. Shearn of New York city, a former judge of the appellate division in the first department, to succeed Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder as Moreland act commissioner to investigate the administration of President Maurice Connolly of the borough of Queens.

Lindbergh In New York

Compensation Hearing

Referee L. A. Kilburn will be at the supervisors' room in the court house, Saturday morning, to hear claimants for compensation for sickness or injuries under the employers' liability act.

Seek Chemist In Brown Death

New York, March 2 (AP).—Investigation into the burning to death of Miss Margaret Brown near Barnardville, N. J., February 20, centered in this city today with police seeking Louis Clement, a chemist, for questioning.

Police made it clear they had no evidence as to who actually set fire to the unconscious woman's clothing, but they said they were seeking Clement, who was known by the title "Doctor", because his photograph resembled that of a man Miss Brown had pointed out as her fiancé.

Miss Miller, a friend of the dead woman and the only person known to have seen her in company with her fiancé, said that while she was not positive the photograph resembled the man she knew as her fiancé's acquaintance, Miss Brown had told her some time before she was killed that she was engaged to marry a "Dr. Clement" or "Clemen."

The man sought is the same "Doctor" Clement who was indicted charged with defrauding two women out of $2,000 in connection with an alleged gasoline substitute. This indictment was quashed later.

New Jersey police also were seeking a Harry Siegel, 34 years old of Utica, N. Y., for questioning in connection with the murder. Siegel has been sought by Bayonne, N. J., police since December, when he jumped a $2,000 bond after his arrest on a charge of defrauding Mary Kaula, a domestic, of $1,300. He is wanted by the police of Guttenberg, N. J., on a similar charge.

The police admitted their only reason for seeking Siegel was because of his record for preying on women.

Arctic Aviators Reported Safe

Winnipeg, March 2 (AP).—Lost since February 17 in the snowy wastes of the Arctic Circle, two aviators and a native were reported safe at Port Burwell on Hudson Straits. The aviators are flying officer A. A. Lewis of Winnipeg and Flight Sergeant Terry of the northern air patrol.

Twelve days ago Flying Officer Lewis, Sergeant Terry and a native left Port Burwell on a patrol and observation trip. Several hours after they had left, Lewis reported by wireless from an unknown position that he was landing on the ice. From that time they were lost to their associates at the station at Port Burwell.

Searchers in planes were sent from the Port Burwell base and dog teams were pressed into service to carry others. The missing aviators carried emergency rations and were otherwise well equipped but hope had practically been given up for them.

The message announcing their safety was sent here by Flight Lieutenant P. F. Leitch of Winnipeg, from Port Burwell. It gave no details, merely stating: "Airmen safe, Port Burwell."

YOUTH DIES IN HIS OWN "ELECTRIC CHAIR"

Spokane, Wash., March 2 (AP).—An experiment, apparently to test an "electric chair" he had constructed, caused the death here last night of Kenneth F. Brooks, 16-year-old high school senior.

The body, clad only in cotton trunks, was found in the chair in the boy's room by a brother, handcuffs and chains to which wires leading from an electric light circuit were attached, encircled the ankles and wrists. The current was controlled by a small switch held in the youth's hand.

Police parents told of his brilliant scholastic standing, good health and plans to graduate this semester. Officers were informed the boy often had experimented with chains, handcuffs and padlocks and studied electricity.

Authorities expressed the belief that the ordinary household current would be insufficient to cause death, except in a case of a weak heart.

IDAHO DELEGATION WILL SUPPORT SMITH

Blackfoot, Idaho, March 2 (AP).—The Idaho delegation, with a voting power of eight, will go to the Democratic National convention instructed to support Governor Alfred E. Smith and to use "every honorable means" to secure the presidential nomination for the New York executive.

The 73 delegates at the state Democratic convention here last night voted unanimously to support the candidacy of Governor Smith.

Joshua's Sentence Suspended

Many Questions Raised at New York Water Hearing

Various Towns and Villages Represented by Men Who Want to Know What Will Happen When the Water is Impounded—Business Damages the Great Question of the Hour.

Comparatively few of the persons, municipalities or corporations which had filed objections with the State Water Power and Control Commission to the granting of the right to the city of New York to acquire waters of the upper Rondout, the Neversink and the East Branch of the Delaware river appeared before the commission's hearing held at the court house Thursday and offered any further discussion of the matter. The chief objection before Chief Engineer Russell Suter, who heard the matter in the absence of the full commission, was made by Judge A. T. Clearwater as the representative of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation and the New York Power and Light Corporation.

Several of the others who had filed objections on the part of townships, individuals or corporations appeared before the commission and asked various questions as to what measures would be or had been taken to protect their rights but no real objection was made by them.

The assurance of adequate compensation was sufficient for some, while others were doubtful if the city of New York would treat claimants as well later on as was promised now. This spirit led to numerous discussions and questions but brought out but little testimony for the consideration of the commission.

Chief Engineer Merriman resumed the stand after the noon recess and was the only person to give any testimony in support of the application of the city of New York. He testified that the plans do make ample provisions for direct and indirect damage claims. Judge Clearwater objected to the statement as a conclusion of the witness as to whether the provisions were ample or not.

Among the persons who appeared to be interested were several from Delaware and Sullivan counties who desired to know what they might expect from the city of New York should the commission grant the taking.

E. H. Bouton, appearing for the town of Rockland and the Livingston Manor Water Works, asked what assurance the people had that the project would ever be put through. If the city of New York was granted permission to take the waters from his township and followed out the proposed plan, which is not to develop those waters for some 10 or 12 years, he said the towns would remain in a state of uncertainty for years. There would be a stagnation of business and no one would know whether to go ahead and expand his business or not, if the city of New York does not have to pay damage claims for businesses started after 1927 no one would want to start a business, knowing that he would receive nothing for it if the city eventually did take the business, partially or wholly. On the other hand, if there was no expansion of business during the next ten years and the city of New York never did develop the water project involving his neighborhood then there would be an injustice done, then there would be country by reason of the restraint of business during the period while residents were waiting to see if New York intended to exercise the right to use it should the commission grant such power. He said there was no assurance that the project would ever be carried through. Business might be stagnated, particularly the boarding house business, while the populace waited to see what New York was going to actually do.

On the other hand, if New York city must pay for business damages for businesses started now and until the actual taking, there would be all kinds of businesses spring up mushroom fashion which would work an injustice to the city. All lands and buildings taken will be paid for, including all buildings erected up until the actual taking of the property. Business claims for businesses started now after the city has taken steps to take the lands however, in the event the project is carried through, would not be entitled to sustain claims for loss of business since the business was started in the face of the knowledge that the city was coming in.

Mr. Bouton desired to know how the natural stagnation of business could be compensated should it be ten years before the city decided not to develop the latter part of the program. No one would want to start a business in that section until the matter was settled if he knew he could sustain no business claim if the city took his new business after eight or ten years. If the city did not take the lands after some eight or ten years then business would have started still for that period so far as expansion was concerned and the community would have suffered without any means of redress.

The matter of whether municipalities along or near the proposed line of reservoirs could not water from the impounding was also brought up and it was stated that they could Livingston Manor was interested in that proposition, if the town grows it may need additional water and Acting Corporation Counsel Hilley stated that the city would have to permit the taking of water if desired.

Under the proposed plans the dam on the Rondout creek would be near Monticello, some four or five miles up stream from the present Hook Falls dam and power plant. The capacity of that reservoir would be about 26,700,000 gallons. Mr. Merriman in a general way said the average flow of the Rondout in the vicinity of the dam was about 1,500,000 gallons a day. Some sixteen or seventeen miles below the Hook Falls dam is the High Falls power plant. Mr. Merriman said he did not believe it would put these plants out of business but would limit their capacity.

Asked by Judge Clearwater if the plans even remotely contemplated the taking of the Walkkill river, he said they did not. The present taking, it was believed, would give New York city ample water until 1950 and beyond that they had not planned. The Walkkill was not contemplated within the period mentioned.

The reservoir on the Rondout would cover 1,000 to 1,200 acres. The water from the other dams would be brought by tunnel through the mountains to the Rondout reservoir. These tunnels would come through the mountain and empty near Grahamsville or Eureka. Whether Grahamsville would be taken could not be said now. That the witness said, depended upon the exact height of the dam. The water line would at least come very close if not into the village. Detailed plans have not been prepared.

The Delaware tributaries would not be run dry but would contribute a limited supply and at certain seasons of the summer no water would be taken. From July until October, when the flow is small, no water would be taken beyond the limited taking which is allowed. This does not apply to the Rondout. There all of the water would be taken to the point of the dam.

The aqueduct would run from the Rondout in a straight line crossing the river near the Ulster-Orange line where there is a rest in the river which would be taken advantage of. On the east shore it will run south of New Hamburg. No power would be developed at the Rondout dam as the power would be needed to force the water through the aqueduct. However near Brewster there is a prospect of some power. The elevation of the Rondout was given at 1,700, the Willowemoc as 1,590, the Neversink at 1,620 and the Rondout as 850 feet above tide water.

Along the Little Delaware there is a slight increase in summer population which would make necessary sewage disposal. On the East Branch are located Roxbury, Margaretville, Fleischmanns, Andes and other hamlets which drain into the areas taken. In some of the villages it will be necessary to build sewers as has been done in Tannersville and such as will be built at Grand George by the city in the Gillsburg area. These sewers will be built and maintained by the city. On the smaller watersheds there are but few places which could not be taken care of with individual or at least community sewage systems maintained by the city. On the Rondout the village depends on what the final surveys show.

Ellenville might get water from the aqueduct. Newburgh could better get water from the Ashokan, according to the city engineer.

Along the line are the towns of Downsville, Delhi, Livingston Manor, Roscoe all of which might be served. New Hamburg and Fishkill across the river on the east side could also be served. Beacon could also be served. From the Rondout down there would be sufficient pressure in the tunnel to raise the water to the surface but in Delaware county the service would be poor and Mr. Merriman said the communities would be better served and have a better quality of water through smaller reservoirs in the mountains where practically spring water would be found. This would give better service and better water especially in times when the city supply would be meager.

The program of construction, he said, contemplated the Rondout dam immediately and the work on the Neversink and the connecting tunnel could be carried on at the same time. The tunnel work would probably be undertaken first and as soon as possible after permission was granted.

In about three years after the Rondout project was finished the second stage would be taken up, that would be the East Branch and the connecting tunnel. It would not be until about 1940 or 1942 that the last part of the contemplated work would be taken up.

Asked if the proposed large aqueduct on the east shore did not contemplate capacity for water developed from the taking of waters on the east side of the Hudson, Mr. Merriman said that was not contemplated now.

The source of the Newburgh water supply is not affected by the proposed taking of the Rondout and other

5,883 Accidents, 141 Fatalities

And Injuries to 6,901 Persons During January, According to Motor Vehicle Bureau—Big Increase of Corresponding Month of 1927.

Albany, March 2.—Statistics compiled by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for January, 1928, indicate that there were 5,883 accidents, which resulted in 141 fatalities, and injuries to 6,901 persons. This is an increase of 2,064 accidents, 57 fatalities, and 2,059 persons injured over the corresponding month of 1927. Some of this increase may be explained by the comparatively open winter which has prevailed in New York state during January. Roads in the upstate districts which have usually been covered with ice and snow, consequently blocking traffic, have been free of all encumbrances and were left available for motoring. It is interesting to note that the increase is entirely in the upstate districts.

Sixty-nine per cent of the persons killed were pedestrians. One of the regrettable facts indicated is that of these pedestrian fatalities, 25 per cent were children under 14 years of age. From the statistics it would appear that it is safer to ride in a motor vehicle than it is to walk.

Of the 141 persons killed, only 11 were occupants of automobiles.

Despite constant warnings which have been issued to be careful at railroad crossings, there were in January 14 railroad crossing accidents, which resulted in four deaths, and injuries to 21 others. One fatality resulted at a crossing where a flagman was on duty, and yet the motorist deliberately disregarded warnings. In the other cases the crossing was unguarded, and the motorist, in his desire to reach his destination, failed to observe cautionary signals and bring his machine to a safe speed before approaching the crossing.

Of the motorists who were involved in fatal accidents, 56 were violating the speed law. Some motorists were on the wrong side of the road; others were going at such speed that their cars ran off the roadway, others were guilty of cutting in and similar offenses which naturally resulted disastrously.

More than 50 per cent of the accidents occurred at street intersections. This should indicate to the motorist, the pedestrian, and the enforcing officers where the danger zones exist. To eliminate these preventable accidents, educational campaigns must be undertaken and continued, to advise the pedestrian of the peril which besets his path at street intersection. The motorist also must be warned of the dangers which exist at these intersections, and traffic officers should be stationed at those places where accidents occur frequently.

The safety problem cannot be solved by any one group or agency. It requires close cooperation among all parties affected. It is apparent that safety work would be effective if pedestrians would observe the rules which have been made for their own safe conduct. During January 26 adult pedestrians were killed and 857 others seriously injured, due to jay-walkings.

In addition to these adult pedestrians, 25 children were killed while playing in the street, and 737 others were injured. Parents, teachers, municipal authorities, and organizations should adopt safety programs, safety talks, and safety practices to prevent such accidents. The automobile at the same time is beginning to offset its advantages by the destruction of life and property, which is increasing each year.

At the rate traffic accidents have increased in January, 1928, over January, 1927, automobiles of New York state will cause more than 2,000 deaths during the present year.

VESPER SERVICE AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The vesper service this Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church will be largely musical, and will include several solo numbers for organ. The recital will feature compositions by the French organists, Bataille and Gailmann, in addition to a serious fantasia by William Faulkes in keeping with the Lenten season.

The second sonata in D major by Alexandre Gailmann consists of three movements. The allegro moderato opens with a melodic figure which is elaborated and then repeated in relative major and minor keys, returning to the original theme for the close of the movement. The second movement, larghetto, is a meditative and melodious bit, placed between the more pretentious and brilliant opening and closing movements. In the latter, allegro vivace, may be heard two intervals all the way through, growing in brilliancy until the close when the sonata is finished by the playing of the first theme.

One of the Bataille numbers will be the beautiful "Pilgrims' Song of Hope" with its charming melody and dainty variations. The other, "Offertoire in E Flat," is perhaps one of the most famous of this composer's works, and is characteristic of his thorough, harmonious and altogether musical style. Commencing with a sweet and simple theme, the composer has built up his musical idea until it closes with nearly the full power of the organ.

The remaining organ number, a fantasia by Faulkes, is based upon the old melody, "Urbs Beata." These ancient melodies, sometimes called "plainsongs," are classed among our early ecclesiastical music, dating from a time when the rules governing musical composition were still very primitive. Thus we may find measures of four, five or six beats all in the same theme. William Faulkes has taken this particular phrasing and made it into a work which is both serious and attractive. The anthem for the service will be Harry Rowe Shelley's lovely "Now the Day is Over" and the solo "Blest are the Pure in Heart" by Bruno Huhn will be sung by Mrs. Robert Harder. The service commences as usual at five o'clock and closes promptly at six.

RABBI ROSE TO SPEAK ON "PATHOS AND HUMOR"

Rabbi Morris Rose will have as the topic of his sermon this evening at Temple Emanuel "Pathos and Humor." Rabbi Rose will point out these two dramatic elements as they are expressed in the book of Esther on which the Purim festival is founded. Dr. Rose will also show how the Jewish soul is capable of harmonizing these contrasting psychological experiences and convert them into weapons of self defense against prejudice and persecution. The public is invited to attend. Services will begin promptly at 7:30.

ST. REMY.

St. Remy, March 1.—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed in the Reformed Church, Sunday, March 4. The consistory will meet preceding the service to receive those, if there are any, who wish to unite with the church, either by letter or on confession of faith.

Mrs. John Mahoney of Rutler, N. J., and Mrs. Iva Lefever of Brooklyn are guests of Miss Belle Krom and called on Mrs. Kenneth Krom on Tuesday, also Mrs. William McNamee.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pokorney entertained company from New Paltz on Sunday. May York is recovering from tonsillitis.

PARROT MIMICS HARRISON VOICE

Poll That Lived in White House in 1891 Still Calls Baby McKee.

Omaha, Neb.—President Benjamin Harrison's big old gray parrot, that used to live in the White House at Washington and that still calls Baby McKee in the identical voice and expression of the late President, has recently been discovered in the home of John Metcalf, 2703 Meredith avenue, Omaha, where it has been for many years.

Those who were intimate at the White House during the Harrison administration say the imitation of the parrot is exactly that of President Harrison.

"Where's my boy? Boy—boy—where—is—that—boy?" calls out the parrot in imitation of President Harrison playing hide and seek with his four-year-old grandson, Baby McKee, in the White House nursery.

"Where's my boy?" softly, playfully, lovingly, the old parrot will repeat.

Came to White House in 1891.

Poll, the gray parrot, came to the White House in 1891 and remained until the Harrisons moved out in 1893, to make room for the return of the Grover Cleveland. She had been presented by Russell B. Harrison, son of the President, now living in Indianapolis, to his wife, Mrs. Martha Saunders Harrison, daughter of the late Gov. Alvin Saunders of Omaha. Because Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, wife of the President, took such a liking to the parrot, Mrs. Russell Harrison presented the bird to her mother-in-law.

Mrs. Harrison liked the parrot because Poll never learned to swear—and does not swear to this day.

Poll Harrison was as prominent when she was in the White House as was Liddle Boy, President Harding's collie, or is Rob Roy or the other pets of President Coolidge now in the White House. Poll was written up many, many times in the years she was the official pet of the Presidency. After the death of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, the bird was returned to Mrs. Russell Harrison in Omaha and remained in the Harrison family here for a number of years. During much of that period Poll swung in a cage in the office of State Senator Saunders of Omaha, brother of Mrs. Russell Harrison.

"Landed" Fifteen Years Ago. The bird took a peculiar liking for Metcalf, mail carrier for that district, and made so much of Metcalf that fifteen years ago it was "loaned" to Metcalf, who took it home with him and has kept it ever since.

Nobody knows just how old Poll is. Thirty-five years ago she lived in the White House. She does not look a day older now than on the day she was presented to Mrs. Benjamin Harrison. Baby McKee, for whom Poll still calls in the voice of President Harrison, is now Benjamin McKee of Paris, France, and is forty years old or more. Both President and Mrs. Harrison have long been in their graves. Bob, the dog, for whom Poll whistles and calls, has been dead more than thirty years.

Metcalf believes Poll is nearing the century mark in age. Mrs. Russell Harrison thinks she is not more than half that age and bases her opinion on the fact that if Poll had been out in the world very long before she came into the Harrison family she would have learned to swear.

All Lima Digging for Lost Gold of Incas

Lima, Peru.—The government has received a large number of applications from residents of Lima asking permission to excavate under various old buildings in the city where, legend has it, ancient Inca and Spanish colonial treasure is buried.

One spot in particular, situated on the "Calle Huertano" (Street of the Orphans) where the Marquis Negretro is said to have died, a bachelor, three centuries ago after burying beneath his home huge quantities of heavy gold plate, Spanish doubloons, and other coin of the realm, is being sought after as a site for "digging."

After getting permits the recipients set feverishly to work at the excavating. As far as is known, however, no success has attended the efforts yet.

Hebrew Scapegoat Paralleled in India

London.—The ancient Hebrew custom of loading the sins of the people on a scapegoat, which bore them off in the wilderness, has a modern parallel in a certain district in central India. It is not sins, however, which the modern scapegoat is required to carry off, but smallpox.

When an outbreak of smallpox occurs in a village the inhabitants resort to the ceremony of "aleast." A female goat is purchased by public subscription, and is adorned with the particular types of ornaments usually affixed to the image of a goddess. The goat is then apparently looked upon as an incarnation of the goddess of the disease. The animal is supposed to remove the epidemic as she is passed on from village to village until she reaches her own territory, or is devoured by wild beasts on the way.

HOMESICK

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I THOUGHT that homesick meant to be away from home, across the sea, or 'way off on a railroad train to Manitoba or to Maine. I thought that homesick was to leave the place you live, and grieve and grieve. I thought you really had to roam, that homesick meant away from home.

But here I am, in my own bed, My own chintz curtains overhead, My own bright carpet on the floor, My own red rocker by the door. Outside I see the same green grass, Outside I see the neighbors pass, And yet I'm just the loneliest That anybody ever guessed.

You see, Aunt Molly's taken worse, And so they left me with a nurse, And kissed me twice, and said be good, Hurried as fast as people could. When some one brought a telegram, And they're away, and here I am, And her hat's gone, and so is his, And now I know what homesick is.

For homesick isn't being far Across the sea, like some folks are; It isn't when you're East or West You really get the homesickiest. It's when you're home, but home like this. And—well, when lots of things you miss; It's when you're home, like me today, And Mother and Father miles away.

Events Around The Empire State

Hochester.—A telephone system designed for identifying "smoking" stacks in this city has been placed in the office of the bureau of smoke regulation and a high back building. John Marston, smoke inspector, will use the telephone to "spot" chimneys discharging smoke of greater volume or density than the local ordinance permits.

Genesee.—Theodore F. Olin, president of a local bank, completed seventy years in business today. Although more than 60 years of age, Mr. Olin continued to be active in his work as the oldest active bank president in Western New York.

Malone.—Fire loss in the village of Chateaugay, near here, was only $75 during the past year, according to the fire chief's report. Firemen in this north country are salvagers as well as fire fighters. At a farm house near Molra a few days ago, they extinguished the blaze and then helped to carry back the furniture which had been removed from the house.

Oneida.—Seventeen years ago, Ernest E. Scribner, of this city, was blinded in one eye by time. An eye specialist, who attended the removal of the eye, a few days ago Mr. Scribner got some dust in his good eye, and while removing it discovered he could detect daylight with the "blind" eye. Since then the sight has improved rapidly, until he can now distinguish a ring on his finger.

Albany.—October 18 and 19 have been set by the Board of Regents as the dates for the 1928 convocation of the University of the State of New York.

Buffalo.—A red squirrel has been annoying George A. Bowman, 451 Norwood avenue, for some time by gnawing garbage bags and scattering the garbage about. Mr. Bowman has obtained a permit from the State Conservation Commission, allowing him to capture the squirrel alive. It will be turned over to the commission and will be liberated in another locality.

HURLEY.—The Farm and Home Bureau held their annual community meeting in the basement of the church, Monday, February 27. Luncheon was served to 35 Farm and Home Bureau members and their friends. Miss Jones of the College of Home Economics addressed the Home Bureau in the afternoon on "Our Civic Responsibilities."

Miss Elizabeth DeWitt is spending two weeks in New York and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shults and son, and Mrs. Mary Shults of Bearsville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Ostrander Sunday.

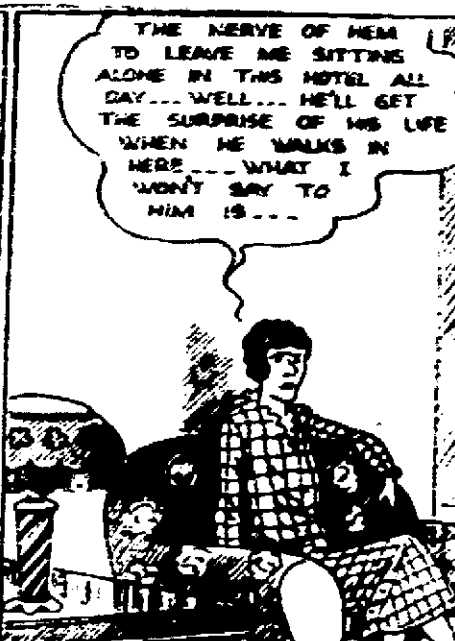

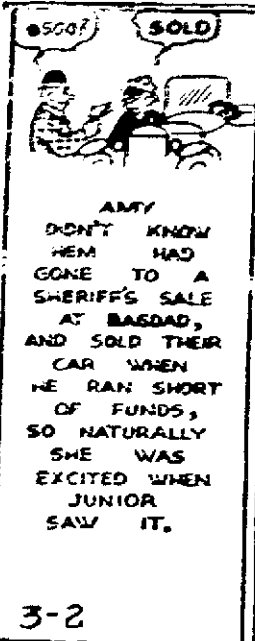

Miss Elizabeth Rife of Woodstock is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Ostrander.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Swart and son, Myron, of Flatbush were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Osterhout Sunday.

A student from Rutgers Theological Seminary of New Brunswick, will have charge of the service Sunday morning. The communion service has been postponed until March 11. Dr. Cantine will have charge of the service.

Cornelius Lomond, who has been ill the past week, is much improved.

The good wife apologized to her unexpected guests for serving the apple pie without cheese. The little boy of the family slipped quietly away from the table for a moment, and returned with a cube of cheese, which he laid on the guest's plate. The visitor smiled in recognition of the lad's thoughtfulness, popped the cheese into his mouth, and then remarked:

"You must have sharper eyes than your mother, sonny. Where did you find it?"

The boy replied with a flush of pride: "In the rat-trap."

Any reference to golf should be excused enough to tell the story of the golfer, confessed slayer of his wife, up before the judge who was also a golfer. "Tell me, said the judge, "where did you kill your wife?" "I killed her in the bunker," answered the golfer. "What did you kill her with?" "I killed her with a mashie niblick," said the golfer. "Well," said the judge, "you used the right club."

GRAPE GROWING MAY BE PARTIALLY ABANDONED

Silver Creek, N. Y., March 2 (P).—Grape growing in the northern part of Chautauque county may be partially abandoned this year in favor of tomatoes and cucumbers.

Farmers in this section have contracted with the South Shore Growers' Association to raise 1,500 acres of tomatoes. The association which has its headquarters here, will sell the crop to a canning company in Pittsburgh for use in catsup.

The association also has contracted for several thousand bushels of cucumbers for pickling. Farmers in this county have been losing money on their grapes for several years past, and it is probable that some of the vineyards will be uprooted and tomatoes and cucumbers grown instead.

CHINA "SHOOT'S ROLL" ON NEW YEAR'S NOISE.

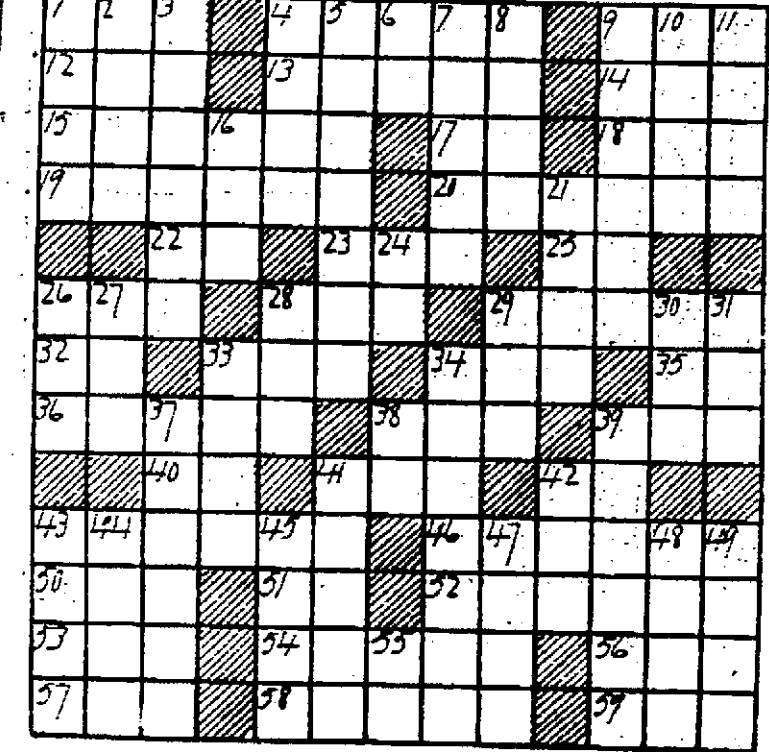

Shanghai, March 2 (P).—The furor and racket incident upon a properly celebrated Chinese new year cost the nation $2,500,000 this year.

Reckoned by the lunar calendar, the holiday came on January 23. There being countless superstitions to observe, the occasion demanded an almost endless bursting of firecrackers.

The welcome, executed with precision and great determination wherever necessary, explosives could be found, might have cost more had the country not been more in need of food than noise. The firecracker bill is estimated to have been materially less than in former years.

Income Tax in a Nutshell

Tips for Taxpayers.
No. 17.

Bad debts constitute a considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers and may be treated in one of two ways, either by deduction from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless in whole or in part, or by deduction from a reasonable reserve for bad debts. Permission to adopt the reserve method is limited to taxpayers having a large number of accounts where credit has been extended to cover a considerable portion of time. It is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific debt.

Bad debts may be deducted from gross income only for the year in which they are ascertained to be worthless and charged off the books of the taxpayer. The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the propriety of any deduction claimed for bad debts. Where the surrounding circumstances show that a debt is worthless and uncollectible, and that legal action, in all probability, would not avail, proof of these facts is sufficient for their worthlessness.

Unpaid loans made to relatives or friends with little or no expectation of their return are not deductible but are regarded as gifts. If a debt is forgiven, it can not be claimed.

PORPOISES STUDIED TO SOLVE HUMAN ILLS.

Hatteras, N. C., March 2 (AP).—The study of whales and porpoises may aid in the solution of calisson sickness, bane of the deep sea diver, and other human ailments.

Many facts of practical interest to the medical profession are being sought in this field of research, the cetacean being, like man, a mammal and having corresponding organs and tissues. It was with such an object in view that a group of scientists of the department of anatomy of the Johns Hopkins medical school and Dr. Remington Kellogg of the United States biological survey, and A. Brazier Howell of the Smithsonian Institution, mammalogist of the national museum, visited Cape Hatteras this month to conduct a series of experiments on porpoises. The only commercial porpoise fishery in the United States centers at the cape, and a number of experiments were made on living and freshly killed porpoises. To continue their work, the scientists took back to their laboratories specimens of all of the organs of the porpoise's body, including six brains. Contrary to what might be expected, the porpoise brain is described by Dr. Howell, who is corresponding secretary of the American Society of Mammalogists, as "phenomenally developed" and "of an exceedingly high type."

"Many of the problems involved in the study of porpoises," he explained, "are distinctly applicable to human activities. If it could be ascertained how porpoises and whales manage to survive at the depths to which they go, much would probably be learned in regard to calisson sickness. And of practical interest is the question of the manner in which whales dispose of the carbon dioxide given off by the body, through the lungs, during prolonged submergence. Of no less interest are the physical adjustments to the denser aquatic environment which whales (once a land animal) have made, involving blood pressure, pressure of spinal fluid, and the mechanism of breathing, as well as the great changes in the muscle system as compared to the typical land mammal."

In addition to the brains and other organs taken away by the scientists, 163 weather skulls were gathered for a study of their variations.

The Johns Hopkins doctors who took part in the investigation were George B. Wislowski, associate professor of anatomy; A. H. Schultz, associate professor of physical anthropology; O. R. Langworthy, associate in anatomy and Ernst Huber, associate professor of anatomy.

LIGHTING OF HIGHWAYS WOULD DOUBLE TRAFFIC

Schenectady, March 2.—Two per cent of a state highway investment if spent for adequate illumination would double the night use of roads and largely increase the usefulness of highway systems, according to a statement in the transactions of the Illuminating Engineering society.

"Two knotty traffic problems which become more insistent every year are highway congestion by day, and glare by night. Adequate highway lighting would be at once the practical and economical solution of both."

"Let us consider this from an economic standpoint. The automobile investment of the United States for 1926 is estimated at ten billion dollars. It costs twenty to fifty thousand dollars to build a mile of highway. To light it costs about seven hundred dollars a year."

"On a basis of thirty-five thousand dollars a mile cost, for two per cent of the state highway investment, spent in adequate highway lighting, it is conservative to estimate that the night use of roads would be doubled. Night traffic is now eighteen per cent of the total, and doubling this would increase the present efficiency of the highway system by at least that percentage."

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Siles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

"The year I have been so constipated, after trying every kind of drug possible, I finally got temporary relief. I became constipated and gave up hope, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.
I had heard so many testimonials I had no doubt it was of the opinion of the physicians. I cannot express words enough to meet with Kellogg's food.
Kellogg's, 225 N. Kaskas Avenue,
Chicago, Ill."

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late.
If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoons daily.
Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN.

Jewish Feast of Purim Monday

The celebration of the Feast of Lots, or Purim as it is known in Hebrew, will open on Monday evening, March 5, 1925. The minor holiday commemorates the victory of the Jews over blind Anti-Semitism that stirs up hatred against the Jewish people in every land and century.
The story of the Book of Esther which accounts for the origin of this festival, whether its historicity is certain or not, at once declares its far-reaching significance to Jewry and the world at large.

In the days of Ahasuerus, or as called in history, Artaxerxes II, a great disaster threatened the Jews who dwell in the provinces of Persia and Media. The king appointed his favorite general Haman, to the office of Prime Minister. This new Grand Vizier of the Persian Empire was a bitter enemy of the Jewish people, and he sought to wipe them out of the Persian dominions. Especially did he hate Mordecai, a rich Jew who had risen to power in the government. But he could not attack Mordecai directly, for he wielded no little influence in the court. He therefore, decided to destroy the entire race and thus quell his scorn.

He presented the Jewish people to the king as a dangerous and rebellious element in the Empire. He told him that their existence would endanger the security of his widelyspread provinces. And to obtain the seal of the king to his vicious scheme, Haman promised to pay a huge sum of money to the treasury.
Artaxerxes II did not accept the offer, but gave him permission to carry out his evil plans. Haman cast lots to set the day for the general massacre of all Jews. And when the day was established, he sent forth an edict sealed with the king's ring "to destroy utterly all Jews, both young and old, and to take the spoil of them for a prey."

But about five years prior to this event a peculiar incident had occurred. Artaxerxes II gave a serendity banquet in honor of his governors and counselors. As a fitting climax, he commanded his beautiful wife, Vashti, to appear at the feast.
The queen refused to obey. The king raged with fury. He deposed her, and took the charming Esther,

Mordecai's niece, for his queen.
Esther kept in secrecy her ancestry, race, and none at court knew of her ancestry.

And now when Mordecai had learned of Haman's edict, he immediately communicated it to Esther.
He implored her to appear before the king and plead with him for her people. Esther arranged a banquet for the king and Haman. And at the feast she declared to her royal sponse that it was her own people that Haman sought to massacre. The king arose in wrath, and ordered Haman to be hung. Esther further begged him to undo Haman's evil device. But the royal edict bearing the name of the king could not be revoked. Hence, Artaxerxes II issued a counter decree, giving the Jews the right "to stand for their lives and to destroy all that would assault them." And in memory of this fateful event the Jewish people established the Feast of Lots.

The Book of Esther is read in the synagogue, and special prayers are recited to commemorate this triumph. In modern times, one of the chief features in the celebration of this festival is the children's play in which the significance and story of Purim are clearly portrayed.

DOES YALE NEED A BREWERY INSTEAD OF $200,000,000?

"What Yale really needs more than anything else, if it is going to persevere in this ideal of culture, is a good brewery," states Donald Ogden Stewart, brilliant Yale graduate, in the April issue of College Humor.
"Been" to quote an Oxford authority, does more than Milton can to justify God's ways to man.

"What I want to know among other things is what they really expect a Yale man can be, after four years in the Yale factory, and what after twenty millions have been expended on Yale, perhaps I can get two seats behind the goal posts for both the Princeton and Harvard games, and, as I get older, these seats amplified. If I live to be eighty, I may reach the forty yard line.

"Perhaps, instead of a bigger and better Yale, the real need is for a faster and better institution. Who knows. To tell the truth, I shouldn't be surprised if I found that I didn't believe in a college education any more. Perhaps I won't send my boy Yaddup to Yale after all. I may just take him out and teach him how to shake hands, and use a niblick and then buy him a Brooks Brothers' suit and let him go right into the bond business with the A. B."

Donald Ogden Stewart, famous American humorist, has written a very clever article on his alma mater but within it there is a thread of seriousness which will make any college man do some real thinking.

Culture, training, a social status, a matrimonial bureau; just what is a large university? You may be better able to understand yourself and your college after reading this stinging article on old EH in the April College Humor.

GRANADA PUBLIC BATH BECOMES MONUMENT.

Granada, Spain, March 2 (P).—
When the Spaniards captured Granada from the Moors, the city possessed 500 public bathing establishments for its half-million inhabitants. It now has only one public bath for its 50,000 citizens, and that has just been declared a national monument.

When the Spaniards entered the city as conquerors, an order was given for the immediate destruction of all bathing establishments, but that known as the Banuelo escaped.
The Banuelo was constructed in the years from 1050 to 1076 and next after the Alhambra itself, is of paramount archaeological interest, for it is one of the few Moorish baths still in existence dating from the eleventh century.

The sculpture of the Banuelo, which is almost intact, indicates the good taste, the notable style and the exquisite perfection attained by the artists in stone of those days. In the opinion of students there is nothing to approach it in beauty in any discoveries that have been made in the ruins of the once powerful Moorish empire.

ROYALTY OF NORWAY MOVES IN OLD FINE

Copenhagen, Denmark, Mar. 2 (P).—
In his private and three times Christian of Denmark, speaks a series of times during the last years of the present reign, has never been by the ordinary monarch. Most of them were the same as the Danish court of other crowned heads.

On festive path king, of a more private character, King Christian delights in showing some of these times to his friends. One shows the arrival in 1892 of the late King Nicholas and his family at Fredensborg Castle, summer residence of King Christian's grandfather.

King Christian IX, also called the father-in-law of Europe. One of his daughters married King Alexander II, the other King Edward of England. His second daughter became King of Greece, and his grandson Haakon King of Norway.

BELIEVE THEY UNCOVERED FIRST GAS MAIN

Fredonia, N. Y., March 2 (P).—A section of iron pipe, believed to be the first gas main laid in the United States, was uncovered here a few days ago by workmen excavating for a sewer.

The first natural gas spring in the country was discovered in Fredonia, and the gas was lighted for the first time when General Lafayette visited this village in his tour of the country during the early part of the last century.

A bronze tablet in the library here marks the spot where the general stood to receive citizens of Chautau-que county during his visit here.

EXOTIC EMBROIDERED BLOUSE WITH WRIST BAG TO MATCH IS 'LAST WORD'

WITH sumptuous velvets, gorgeous brocades, likewise cloth of gold and silver, as its media, the blouse is contributing no little to the present era of elegance in dress. The note of luxury also is expressed in that which is very new and chic—the blouse whose all-over exotic embroidery is developed in high colors and striking design.

Nothing handsomer in the way of a blouse has been brought out this season than that which is made of black satin whose marvelous embroidery is frankly of Chinese inspiration. The picture shows a blouse of this type. The fact of an embroidered wrist bag to match, presents a novel and fetching angle to the mode. As to the effectiveness of such an ensemble, little need be said, for the picture tells its own story.

The idea of the all-over embroidered blouse is being worked out in beautiful form, for the velvet two-piece frock, fascinating models feature the blouse, which is of the same velvet as the skirt, with skillful embroidery bordering neckline, wrists and about the neckline, extending up and down a semi-front opening. Little repeat designs are scattered over the entire tunic. One such, recently displayed, is of almost green sheer velvet. The motif and border are done in oriental colorings which are intermingled with gold and silver threadwork. In the present vogue for the embroidered blouse the home dressmaker with an artistic turn of mind should find inspiration for designing costumes which shall carry the distinction of fine handwork.

The all-over repeat design is one way of accomplishing a unique effect. Perhaps it may be just a simple rosebud motif scattered here and there or a conventional patterning, or as is very effective, a single flower spray across the front of the blouse.

The blouse starred all over with tiny gold or silver nailheads is also very modish. A black satin frock whose skirt is plaited or draped takes on a smart appearance if its blouse be thus polka-dotted with metal nailheads. With this wear a narrow satin belt which has been solidly encrusted with the nailheads—the effect is stunning.

Now that oriental embroideries are so featured in the mode, one can pick up lovely specimens of Japanese and Chinese handwork. In the form of panels and squares. These can be inset in the velvet or satin blouse with extreme effectiveness.

Another clever way is to set the embroidery pieces in with gaging which is done with gold thread.

WEST POINT PLAYERS AT BROADWAY THEATRE

The West Point Players, consisting of officers of the Army stationed at West Point and their wives, are presenting the three act mystery play "The Donovan Affair" by Owen Davis at the Broadway Theatre on the night of March 14. This play has had a year's exceptional run at the Fulton Theatre in New York. By many critics it is considered the best of its kind since the "13th Chair." The West Point Players have already given three performances of this play to full houses, two at West Point and one at Newburgh.

Kingston is fortunate in that the Players have this year been permitted to extend their tour to some of the more distant towns and so have made arrangements with Mr. Lazarus to present their play at his beautiful new playhouse on Broadway.

The play is presented for charities. The proceeds go toward the support of the Post School for children of the Officers and Enlisted men stationed at West Point.

Patronage at "The Donovan Affair" on March 14 will not only be aiding a deserving cause but will provide an opportunity to witness a high class mystery play presented by a troop of well trained artists.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Buttons and Hows Replace Buttons Again—Collars Have Narrowed and Made May Widen.

Paris—it still remains true that buttons are the last things thought of as a fastening for a frock. "Buttons are so obvious," is perhaps the reaction of the designer who straightway goes about employing buckles—not one but a line of them—or bows to fasten a frock, if indeed she has not designed it to be peeled off and shed as one would one's skin.

Buttons, however, do appear, not so much for use as for ornamentation. A trick worth knowing is to use bright crystal ones, as one would use cuff links, or, for that matter, to really wear cuff links to fasten the wrist band of a simple frock.

There is some truth in the statement that the sleeveless gown has another chance for its life, but it is not expected that it will repeat the success of the long sleeve, which, light or flowing, is the first choice in sleeves. Any attempt at fullness occurs, as before, above the wrist.

Collars, especially on spring coats, have shrunk into mere line, which, after the fur shawl effects of the winter, is something of a relief and makes it more possible for hat brims to widen. A wide hat brim and a large collar are sworn enemies, and while hats on this side of the world are far from large, one is beginning to think they might broaden. Anyway, they are being made to satisfy American demands.

Children's Court Now Universal

State-Wide System of County Children's Courts Was For Reaching Movement to Check Unsocial Methods of Handling Cases.

New York, March 2.—Although the first children's court in the world was opened in Chicago only 25 years ago, juvenile or children's courts have since been established in every State in the Union but one, and in Europe and in the Orient," said Frederick A. Moran, Secretary of the Division of Probation of the State Department of Correction, at the 18th annual conference of County Children's Agents of the S. C. A. A. here today.

"New York," said Mr. Moran, "was one of the first States to separate children from adults arrested for drunkenness, prostitution, disorderly conduct, drug addiction, vagrancy or for more serious offenses. For years, however, it lagged behind other States in regard to adequate care and protection of children. Until the creation of the state-wide system of county children's courts in 1922 over 4,000 judges had the legal right to remove children from their homes and to commit them to correctional institutions.

"There is no question that the creation of the state-wide system of county children's courts was a far reaching movement to check the unsocial methods of handling children's cases, but the experience of the past six years in New York state is again proving what experience has already shown,—that merely enacting a law does not solve the situation which made the law necessary. Whatever the decision of the court it ought to be based upon a real knowledge of all the factors affecting the life of the child.

No one interested in children is apt to question or doubt the value of children's courts, or underestimate the efforts judges are making to develop ideal courts, but none of us thinks that any children's court will solve all the social ills of childhood. Citizens, however, have a right to expect that in these courts children's cases will not be disposed of in wholesale fashion, that the court before making a decision in the case of any child will have a thorough understanding of the child's personality, that it will utilize existing social agencies and institutions to correct conditions, that it will enforce parental obligations and interpret to the community the social conditions responsible for the appearance of children before the court.

"The state, while expressing its interest in the welfare of its wards, through the enactment of the children's court act, has done little or nothing to aid in the development of these courts.

Probation Problems.

"The creation of county children's courts has naturally developed many new problems in probation and in the disposition of children's cases. In a number of children's courts the ill-advised and dangerous plan of having probation officers act as placing out agents or home finding agents is being followed. It is doubtful if the provisions of the children's court act give probation officers the authority to make arrangements for the placing out or boarding out of children. In the opinion of the Commission the selection of temporary or permanent homes for children is a task that if well done requires the thorough investigation of the home before a child is placed and intensive supervision afterward. Child placing is a specialized task and should be done only by those who have mastered the technique of this division of social service.

Value of County Agents.

"It is because county agents are well trained social workers, drilled in the necessity of making thorough investigations and adhering to accepted standards of social case work that the courts need to utilize their services. The cooperation of county agents with the judges of children's courts and with the probation departments of the courts has been invaluable. The courts, and the neglected children appearing before the courts, will profit from their continued cooperation. County agents have made a contribution to all rural social work."

George J. Nelbach, executive secretary of the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health, said that "the public has a right to expect that the agencies responsible for health and welfare activities shall pull together in their respective fields." He described how executive secretaries of county health associations and county children's agents throughout the state were promoting teamwork in rehabilitating families stricken with poverty, sickness, or delinquency, and in securing enlightened public health measures. He declared that the job of providing for needy children and furnishing health protection and promoting disease protection was so great "that no one organization, public or private, can do the job alone."

NEBRASKA SPRINTER OFFERED TRYOUT WITH BROOKLYN

New York, March 2 (AP).—Roland Locke, famous Nebraska sprinter, today had an offer to give up the cinder path for the diamond.

Acting upon the recommendation of Dave Bancroft, Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Nationals has invited Locke to report at Clearwater, Fla., for a tryout with the Dodgers. Bancroft is a friend of Locke and although neither Bancroft nor Robinson has seen the Nebraskan perform on a baseball field, they have reports that he displays ability as an outfielder.

It is understood that Locke will abide by Robinson's judgment as to whether he should abandon the track in his pursuit for a major league career.

Although Dazzy Vance has not signed a contract for 1928, he pitched two innings for the Robins in practice at Clearwater yesterday, indicating promise of a settlement of the salary controversy.

The Giants had their first drill at Warren Park in Augusta yesterday with a squad of 32 reporting. Vic Aldridge, the pitcher traded, has yet to put in an appearance.

Pitcher Jess Doyle, a holdout from the minors, was released back to the Toronto Internationals by Manager John McGraw who declared he could not agree to the terms sought by the player.

Rookies had a big day at the Yankee camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., Byrd of Alabama and Cooke, a Carolinian, performed in the outfield to the satisfaction of Manager Miller Huggins. Lou Gehrig connected for another long swat to the lake adjacent to the diamond. Babe Ruth is becoming bronzed by the sun in his constant patrol of the golf links.

Price for Utopia

I have a terrible conviction that if the human race in peace had ever been willing to undergo half the sacrifices—even the money sacrifices—which it was willing to undergo in time of war, we should have had Utopia painted on the map of the world long ago.—Robert Lynd.

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physically wrecked. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of herbs, roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Est Eals for Long Life

Est eals and live long is the slogan of those in Japan who enjoy the diet and claim that it is nourishing and healthful, although somewhat of a luxury for many poor people. During the recent "wet day" festival many instances of old persons who were fond of the elongated fish were cited. Among them is Kibachiro Otsura, the ninety-year-old retired shoemaker and business man of Tokyo, who is called an eel epicurean. Another champion of the eel is Matsuzaka Onye, aged eighty-five, an actor of the Imperial theater, Tokyo.

Reason for Insect's Name

The Praying Mantis is an insect belonging to the order Orthoptera. Its name is derived from the attitude it assumes upon at rest or waiting to grasp another insect. The knees are bent and the front legs are held as though supporting a prayer book. Among the ancient Greeks the Praying Mantis was used in soothsaying. It was also revered by the Hindus. In southern France it is believed to point out a lost way. The Hottentots regard its lighting upon any person both as a token of salubrity and an omen of good fortune.

EASY PREY FOR ROSARY TRICK

Gullible Yanks in Paris Fall Victims to Unique Swindle.

Paris.—So clever that one would think even a fifteen-year-old boy wouldn't fall for it, the "Rosary trick" is netting for the hundred or more crooks practicing it in France at least $100,000 a year. It seems incredible that business men, shrewd lawyers—in one word a distinct attorney of an American state—German, and several travelers knowingly hand over to a chance acquaintance pocketbooks with anything from one to $250.00 and wait for him to bring back the money, but the facts are there.

How is it done? Here is a typical example and one is enough because the setting is always the same. A young Philadelphia business man came to Paris with his wife and started out to see the sights.

Find the Rosary.
In the Champs-Élysées, after visiting the tomb of the Unknown Soldier under the Arc de Triomphe, they were greeted by a soft spoken gentleman whom they had met a few weeks previously in London, calling himself Francis Arthur Barclay. Renewal of acquaintance was made over a cup of tea in one of the hotels of the Parisian Fifth avenue.

Strolling in the late afternoon down the famous thoroughfare they noticed a tall, distinguished looking man drop a rosary. Barclay picked it up and handed it to the stranger who thanked him and then hearing a few words which the Philadelphia addressed to his wife, said:

"Why, I'm really glad to meet people who talk my own language. Let me introduce myself. I am Patrick O'Hara of Sydney, Australia. You know, I wouldn't have lost that rosary for a million. I just got it the other day from the holy father himself with his special blessing. It is indeed a treasure for a devout Catholic like myself. I cannot thank you enough."

He was about to say farewell when Barclay interrupted.

"I, too, am a devout Catholic," he announced, "and am more than pleased to be of service to one of my faith."

Everybody was introduced and the four returned to the tearoom. There more confidences were exchanged and the confidence game began. It appeared that Mr. O'Hara had come to Europe from his distant home town of Sydney at the express request of the pope, who had entrusted to him the task of distributing $300,000 to deserving charities throughout the world.

"Here is the money in good Bank of England notes," he said, producing a fat wallet, "and here is a clipping from a London newspaper telling about it."

Barclay showed intense interest in the recital and the Philadelphia business man and his wife also were keenly interested when the Australian went on to say that he liked his new friends and had a proposition to make. He would confide—confide, entrust, confidence were words that slipped off his tip tongue every time he mentioned the word "confide" to them the fact being as his agents in Philadelphia.

Crooks Unmasked.
"But," he proceeded, "I am an American and I don't have much money. I would begin by showing me some confidence in each other. Just to show you, I'll let you, Mr. Barclay, take the wallet and walk around the block with it, your American friend will be panning you while I await your return."

That was done and then Barclay handed over his roll to O'Hara and the American, who walked around the block, exchanging some more confidences, and came back. Now came the turn of the Philadelphia. He exhibited American Express company traveler's checks amounting to $500.00. He the man from Australia said he didn't know what they were. He wanted to see cash, French or English or American bills. The Philadelphia went to the express company and asked for currency. He told enough of the story to the cashier for that veteran official to be suspicious. As the American left the office with the $500.00 in French notes, he was followed by two plain clothes men.

The detectives grabbed O'Hara and Barclay as the former stretched out his hand to take the money. O'Hara was identified as a notorious crook named William Ray and Barclay as his constant pal. Both are in jail.

Iron Hats for Police to Avoid Ice Peril

Philadelphia.—Steel helmets similar to those worn by members of the American expeditionary forces are to be part of the equipment of the Delaware river bridge police when snows and ice cover the suspension cables of the big span.

Painted white, the helmets are designed to protect their wearers from falling ice and snow. Last winter one patrolman narrowly escaped serious injury when a large piece of ice fell from a suspension cable and penetrated his hat.

Several motorists have reported to bridge authorities that the roofs of their cars have been pierced by snow and ice falling from the tops of the cables, 200 feet in the air.

Selfish Wife

Miss Ellen Glasgow, noted novelist, had come from her Virginia home to sail for Europe, and at the Cosmopolitan club in New York she talked about divorce.

"Selfishness is the cause of divorce," she said. "A beautiful Richmond girl married a young cotton broker—they're divorced now—and one day the poor fellow had to say to her:

"Do you know that your dress-makers' bills and beauty parlor bills eat up three-quarters of my income?" "My goodness me!" she answered. "What do you do with all the rest of your money?"

Dog Catchers Caught Five

Business picked up somewhat Thursday for the official dog catchers and they captured five unmuzzled dogs, which were placed in the pound at Forsyth Park.

Amos Van Eiten, president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was a caller at police headquarters today. He stated that he had received complaints regarding the gasconter, and desired to inspect it for himself to ascertain if there were any grounds for the complaints lodged with him. Who had lodged the complaints he did not say. The gasconter is a large box covered with concrete into which is admitted gas and in which the dogs to be killed are placed.

Men Who Do Things

The men who are lifting the world upward and onward are those who encourage more than criticize.—Elizabeth Harrison.

Sacrifice Ever Part of World's Progress

Progress is the result of experiment and sacrifice, and all submarine and air disasters are courageous efforts to overcome the obstacles which hinder scientific development, explains an editorial in Liberty.

"If a disaster is big enough it anesthetizes the mind," continues the editorial. "We understand one death better than six, or six hundred. So, when a dirigible falls, a transatlantic flyer is lost, or a submarine is wrecked, there comes the protest that all this must be stopped."

"We venture another point of view. When these pioneers are killed, much as we regret their death, we are proud that such men have lived. Without their courage progress would stop, for progress is nearly always dangerous."

"The voice of the defeatists," concludes the editorial, "should not be the governing voice. There were defeatists in Paris at the turning point of the war. There were defeatists in Columbus' crews, and in Magellan's. They all wanted to turn back. What if they had had their way?"

MAY LOSE FORTUNE.

NAME AND "MOTHER"
Detroit, March 2 (AP)—Four year old Joseph Bower, until recently an undisputed heir to millions, now faces the possibility of not only losing his heritage of fortune and name, but with being taken from the only person he has known as mother. John L. Zubrick, district director of immigration, said today.
The child, born in Canada and when only a few hours old adopted by Mrs. Myron L. Bower, wife of the son of Joseph Bower, chairman of the board of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, who now admits she represented the infant as her husband's son, may have been illegally brought into this country, Zubrick said.
The immigration director said Mrs. Bower will be asked to appear Monday with the child before a special board of inquiry which will determine whether he was brought into the United States illegally and should be deported.

MRS. COOLIDGE'S MOTHER IS RESTING COMFORTABLY

Northampton, Mass., March 2 (AP)—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, 78-year-old mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, was resting "quite comfortably" at the Dickinson Hospital, Mrs. Coolidge was told when she visited her mother this forenoon.
Mrs. Goodhue has been confined at the hospital since December 11, soon after she was stricken with influenza. Dr. Justia E. Hayes, her personal physician, has said she has been failing slowly due to complications incidental to her advanced age.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 2 (AP)—The stock market continued today to drift in rather aimless fashion, with no indication of a definite trend. Pools again marked up a few favorites two to five points at the same time that bear traders were digging out new weak spots. Commission houses continued to advise caution in the making of new commitments, which was reflected in the relatively small volume of trading.

The action of the market this week appears to indicate that opposing speculative forces had reached a stalemate, with the future trend probably dependent upon some outside force. Weekly mercantile returns reported further irregularity in business, but with progress being made in most lines, although the volume continues slightly below the corresponding level last year.

Call money again renewed at 4 1/2 per cent with plenty of funds available at that figure. Large industrial corporations who have no need of surplus cash, are reported to be heavily lending in the call market, thereby competing with banks and other large financial institutions.

General Motors pointed upward today on predictions of record breaking first quarter earnings, but U. S. Steel common dipped to a new low level for the year, apparently on selling inspired by the disappointing pickup in spring business. Collins and Aikman was the new target today of bear traders, who have succeeded in uncovering a weak spot each day this week. R. H. Macy, which jumped 23 points soon after the opening, lost 15 points of the gain by early afternoon.

Declines of 3 points or more in international business machines, Mullins Body, Transue and Williams, Montgomery Ward, American Radiator and American Republics were offset by similar gains in Brooklyn Edison, American Bosch Magneto, Kelly Springfield eight per cent preferred and Universal Leaf Tobacco.

Gorilla Fussy About His Sleeping Place

The main apparent preoccupation of the male gorilla is fighting for the continued possession of his wives. As the family party moves along through the forest, rarely sleeping twice in the same spot, there is every night the business of making beds. For the gorilla has at least in its common with its human cousins, that he likes and demands a comfortable sleeping place and, what is more, he prefers to make his sleeping arrangements well before darkness falls.

For this purpose paterfamilias bends down saplings and covers them with leafy branches, while the members of his harem, who are sent up neighboring trees, make each her own bed in a suitable fork by breaking off branches within her reach. Their beds are never very high up—never too high for the old man to be able to keep his eye upon them. You may find chimpanzees nesting in the tree-tops, but never gorillas.

Once I had a chance of studying this proceeding. I made my camp close to two parties of gorillas. My own bed was made in five minutes, but the gorillas took twenty minutes to finish theirs to their liking, and probably were more comfortable than I. They are certainly very fastidious in this matter. Even when they remain in the same spot for a few days they make fresh beds every night, sometimes even in the same trees as the night before, but in other forks.—Dr. N. A. Dyce Sharp in the Continental Edition of the London Daily Mail.

"Lost Chord" Dear to Heart of Composer

Arthur Sullivan sketched out the complete setting of "The Lost Chord" while he sat by the deathbed of his brother, Frederic. It was his last composition for many months. The song, when published, swept the world; and the inevitable penalty of popularity followed—it was parodied, to Sullivan's disgust. He wrote to the parodist:

"I wrote 'The Lost Chord' in sorrow at my brother Fred's death. Don't burlesque it!"

Sullivan gave one of his manuscript copies of "The Lost Chord"—those scribbled notes that had come from the depth of his suffering—to his life-long friend, Mrs. Ronalds, a famous American hostess living in London. She was a very gifted amateur singer and Sullivan openly said that she alone brought tears to his eyes with his own notes. Mrs. Ronalds' rendition of "The Lost Chord" was famous. King Edward—then prince of Wales—once remarked that he would travel the length of his future kingdom to hear Mrs. Ronalds sing "The Lost Chord."

When he passed on the manuscript was, by her instructions, buried with her.—Kansas City Star.

Li Hung Chang the Buffer

Li Hung Chang was a Chinese statesman and diplomat born about 1823. Early in life he became noted as a scholar and soon became prominent in the army by suppressing the Taiping rebellion. His career was most checked as he was alternately raised to the highest rank in power and degraded and stripped of his honors. In 1898 he made a tour of the world and returning home became even more powerful. His shrewdness and thrift were his outstanding characteristics and he was responsible for much of the progress made by China during his life. He has often been called the "buffer" between China and the rest of the world.

Difficult Language

Pity the Finnish schoolboy! There are many strange things about Finland, and the strangest is the language. It properly is called either "Finnish-Ugric" or "Ugric-Finnic," is Asiatic in nature and incomprehensible except to Finns or specialists. And the specialists aver that it is probably the most difficult language in the world. For instance, a noun declines into 15 different cases! That is, every noun has 15 different forms other than those of gender and number. The cases are as follows: Nominative, partitive, genitive, possessive, adessive, abessive, illative, elative, allative, prolativ, translative, essive, comitative and instructive.

Lewis Blames Communist Party

Washington, Mar. 2 (AP)—Answering Mayor Gillespie of Pittsburgh, Pa., John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has disclaimed responsibility for the unlawful acts of individuals in the controversy there. Mayor Gillespie asked Lewis to visit Pittsburgh in an attempt to bring the warring union factions together.

Lewis said he joined in the hope that "the offenders will at once be brought to justice," and added: "I express the hope that every member of our organization will remain calm through this trying period of the activities of the agents of the communist party who are now in Luzerne county seeking to cause further confusion and disorder, may not be able to influence our people to depart from the orderly, constructive policies of the United Mine Workers of America."

Public Warned Against Rabbit Fever Danger

Washington.—Warning to the public in general against tularemia, a serious and often fatal disease known as "rabbit fever" or "deer-fly fever," has been issued by Paul G. Redington, chief of the biological survey and approved by the public health service.

It is a plague-like disease transmissible to human beings and of 500 human cases reported in this country 20 have terminated in death.

In nature the disease affects jack rabbits, snowshoe rabbits and cottontail rabbits. Men are known to have become infected by handling rabbit carcasses.

There is no danger of contracting this disease, Mr. Redington stated, from eating rabbit meat if it is thoroughly cooked, even though the animal may have been infected.

WMS 628 OUT OF 121,219 BATTLES WITH SOLITAIRE

Patience Conductor Who Plays Confronts Game Doctors He Has Never Cheated.

Lawton, Okla.—With 121,219 games of solitaire to his credit, C. H. Conklin of Lawton, Oklahoma, conductor on the Western railroad, holds the world's record. Confronting to play more than thirty years ago to while away the time between layovers at the end of his run, he became so absorbed in the game that he commenced to keep a record of what was the chances of winning and losing. Soon after completing his first 10,000 games, when he was a mere beginner, he found that the average was one in 101. Strange to say, this proportion held good up to the present time. In three decades, and with more than 7,000 hours of play he has won but 628 games.

Diogenes was credited with seeking an honest man with the aid of a lantern. The eminent Greek explorer's investigations can end right here. Conklin can truthfully say that he has never cheated himself when engaged in his daily battle with his sworn enemy, Old Sol.

He has played strictly on the square and solely for the love of the game. For cheating, while it might win from Mr. Sol, would spoil Conklin's carefully kept record, an accurate, carefully tabulated account of every one of the 121,219 games. From this he has calculated chances, possibilities and probabilities for every run of his 52 pastboard friends. With this he has been able to take the law of averages apart to see what made it tick.

Conklin plays what is known as the Canfield game, dealing 13 cards down. He then deals a four-card family, face up. He next deals a foundation card, also up. Then he plays the Canfield method, the object being to get the cards "out" in order to get cards played.

Sisters Earn Way by Love of Horses

Minneapolis, Minn.—Jean and Mary Anderson, Minneapolis sisters, have converted their love for horses into a paying proposition.

They have a stable of eight show animals, entirely built up by their own efforts, and between horse-show seasons, in a local sports shop, help the well-dressed horsewoman select her attire.

They know the thrill of judicious horse trading and buying and cannily enter a horse that is not a ribbon winner, but can take fourth or fifth money. For the Anderson girls, horse showing is a business and not an avocation.

The ardent equestriennes have been making the circuit of big horse shows for six years, and they began exhibiting locally when they were ten and fourteen years old, respectively.

They assert that interest in horse shows is increasing in America.

"Folks tire of motors," said Mary. "They can never feel any affection for them," said Jean.

"We have one, but it usually smells horsey," Mary added.

"It is always filled with harness or blankets," put in Jean.

Their latest scheme is to organize a girls' polo club, and they hope to see it realized shortly.

Here's Prize Fish Story; Scientist Tags It True

New York.—Fish stories are the trade talk of Dr. E. W. Gudger, associate in ichthyology at the American Museum of Natural History, but he has just added a prize winner to his collection. Moreover, it's been verified.

Doctor Gudger has substantiated the tradition that the cassowary, first cousin to the ostrich, catches fish by using its own plumage as set lines.

"The cassowary is supposed to be a dry-land bird," says the scientist, "but we know that it goes to the water occasionally in search of food. Wading into a shallow stream, it squats down, spreads and submerges its wings and remains motionless for several minutes. Then it steps to the bank, shakes itself several times and gobbles up the fishes that had sought shelter in its feathers."

"These fishes apparently mistake the plumage for weeds that grow in their native East Indian waters. The creatures' habits are so well known to the natives that they suspend in the water bunches of grass and leaves and then surround these with their nets, confident of catching the fishes that will seek shelter under them."
